MISSION

To elevate, educate, and entertain audiences of all ages by presenting thought-provoking classics, socially relevant plays, and education programs in a natural outdoor sanctuary for the arts. By passing on a sense of history to young people and adults alike, great works of art inform their present and inspire their future. A true renaissance theatre, we offer accessible, diverse, and multi-faceted programming, from Shakespeare to poetry to folk music to the development of future playwrights—all to help understand the world we live in and to embrace our shared humanity.

HISTORY & PROGRAMMING

The seeds of Theatricum Botanicum were planted in the early 1950s when Will Geer and his wife Herta Ware built a performance space on their Topanga property as a refuge for fellow blacklisted artists victimized by the McCarthy Era injustices. Will, who also held a master's degree in horticulture from the University of Chicago, cultivated a large garden and orchard, earning a living with his family by selling vegetables, fruit, and herbs. In 1973, following the success of The Waltons television series and his popular portrayal of "Grandpa," the veteran actor gathered family members (who by then were working in theatres across the country) to form a nonprofit corporation, Will Geer's Theatricum Botanicum. What began as a small band of players working towards becoming a professional repertory theatre, soon became an even larger enterprise incorporating arts education and musical events.

Core to the mission and values of the organization are its education programs. In 1978, the School Days Field Trip program began offering students and classroom teachers an opportunity to travel to Theatricum's outdoor venue for a day including workshops and a professional production of a Shakespeare play. The Academy of the Classics shortly followed providing year-round private classes for youth, teens, and adults that engage them with the classics and teach cooperation and confidence through ensemble, voice, movement, music, dance, and acting techniques. Classroom Enrichment was added in 1990 to bring Theatricum to the schools. Working with diverse school partners, Theatricum develops and delivers the highest quality arts education programming including Assemblies, Workshops, and Residencies all supporting coverage of core curriculum. Combined, Theatricum's education programs serve over 15,000 PK-12th grade students each year. Students from every corner of the greater Los Angeles region; encompassing virtually every type of school or household. We are deeply proud of the diversity of our educational community.

Theatricum's contributions to the professional theatre and performance community are equally impressive. Theatricum provides 35-40 contracts to professional Actors' Equity Association performers and stage managers each season. In addition, the company includes Equity Membership Candidates whose participation in Theatricum's season enables them to earn points towards eventual union membership and valuable real-world training as they advance in their careers. In addition, for over a decade, the Professional Acting Internship and Apprenticeship programs have provided training and hands on experience to 14-18 adults each summer seeking to hone their craft. The Adult wing of the Academy of the Classics provides the highest quality professional training in audition prep, scene work, text analysis, improvisation, voice, movement, and more. And Seedlings provides an opportunity for playwrights to be supported at critical points in the development of a new work with staged readings helmed by professional directors and performed by professional actors on Theatricum's S. Mark Taper Foundation Pavilion stage.

Of course, the heart of Theatricum has always been its Repertory Company. Every year the company performs a variety of plays which include not only our requisite Shakespeare productions, but also classics from theatre's beloved masters, as well as contemporary pieces which speak to the social conscience of our modern society. Each spring and fall the theatre is home to a range of unique concerts and benefit events. Over the course of the past four decades, the "mainstage" entertainment has expanded to offer special performances for children such as Family Fundays which incorporates live musical concerts and interactive theatrical experiences for kids.

In 2001, Theatricum inaugurated a second educational and performance space, The S. Mark Taper Foundation Youth Pavilion. The 88-seat pavilion not only provided a much-needed home for the theatre's burgeoning youth programs but also a potential for mounting other theatrical experiences for audiences and the local community, as well. Its intimate stage has been ideal for the creation of the Under The Oaks series which offers new and experimental theatre works, outdoor cabaret, stimulating performances of words and music under the stars... and evenings of laughter and frivolity with our resident comedy improv troupe, Off The Grid.

Throughout our history, the local and surrounding communities have continually encouraged and supported the Theatricum's artistic goals. In the early years, folks pitched in to help expand and improve the theatre's facilities, contributing the labor and materials to replace the dirt and mud with the original wooden stage, and outfitting the canyon glen with amphitheatre seats made out of railroad ties. The original gates of the theatre were doors donated from the 1959 classic film, Ben Hur. And in 1984, parents from the Topanga Preschool, using wooden planks salvaged from the old Santa Monica pier, constructed the current stage which has provided a marvelous foundation for enhancement and growth with the more recent additions of the two-story Tiring House and the entry-way balconies.

Every year we move forward into another phase of our growth, finding and realizing new ways to increase engagement with the arts, inspire and revitalize local communities, and join with fellow artists through new forms of outreach. In recent years, Theatricum's Antelope Valley Theatre Project offered a multi-faceted, immersive theatre program to the residents of the Antelope Valley area, incorporating a roadshow performance of selected Repertory plays as well as workshops for individuals and families, and a Community Festival. The overwhelming positive feedback and inspiration we received in return encouraged us to look for ways to expand this project and create new avenues for developing similar programs in other communities.

2018 marks our 45th season and we are no less invigorated and inspired to create connection, communication, and community than we were when the theatre was founded! In our technologically connected world, like minds across the globe are a click away, but at the same time local issues can become global, as local marches and concerns become shared experiences world-wide. One small voice, supported, and amplified across a community, can be heard everywhere. Those who have traditionally not been heard, are gathering together to amplify and expand expression. When this is met by open minds who not only hear, but listen, question, and respond with respect – all involved are nurturing our shared humanity. We are listening as we select and present our 2018 season, and we are thrilled to have you as part of the conversation.

And once again, this year, we are proud to announce the recipient of our annual Will Geer Humanitarian Award (WGHA), U. S. Representative Maxine Waters. Throughout her distinguished career in state and federal government, Ms. Waters has made it her mission to speak for all. The WGHA was created to celebrate individuals like Ms. Waters and its previous recipients (2017, Paul Robeson; 2016, Haskell Wexler; and 2015, Earl Hamner, Jr.) They embody and exemplify the precepts on which Theatricum was founded. From the very beginning, Will and Herta had a vision of Theatricum as a sanctuary and a home for the arts. Our guiding principle is apparent in the words of our founder, "[We] are aiming to elevate, educate, and entertain audiences of all ages by passing on a sense of history... for the great works of art inform the present and inspire the future." The intent and spirit of that ideal is our driving force and as we look ahead and focus on the fulfillment of that ultimate goal. Thank you for joining us on the journey.

Education Programs

Academy of the Classics and School Programs

Education has been central to Theatricum's mission since Will Geer began the company over 45 years ago. The idea of passing on a love of language, poetry, art and nature to the next generation is a closely held core value of the organization which it realizes through diverse programs.

The Academy of the Classics offers classes for youth (4-14 years); teens (15-18 years) and adults year-round. Students seeking to expand their knowledge of Shakespeare, love of language, experience in theatre, or professional ability are provided a nurturing environment to learn and grow as artists and human beings.

Theatricum's School Programs have been serving PK-12th grade students since 1978 through the School Days Field Trip Program and Classroom Enrichment - a diverse menu of in-school enrichment including workshops, residencies, and assemblies.

The Repertory offers multiple opportunities for life-long and continuing learning including the Family Theatre workshops, Family Stories, and Internship programs.

Director's Notes

CORIOLANUS cries out to be seen this season!

6th Century BC. An early Roman world. The elite, (the patricians), are an educated, wealthy, military ruling class that control peasants (the plebians) with an iron fist. Rome had come to its glory as a nation through the culture of war. Coriolanus, the Roman star of these victories, was trained from birth to be the hero of all wars. The flaw in him emerges when he addresses the people's hunger. Something he has never felt. The citizens know that the rich have corn, kept only for the wealthy. Coriolanus scorns the people's demand and degrades them publicly. They rebel with the guidance of a newly formed representative for the people. The Tribunes. The first peekings of democracy. The wealthy upper class cannot escape their narrow, violent prejudice. The result sends power and fame spiraling into chaos.

Directors' Notes

Three separate worlds unfold: First, the elegant court of Duke Theseus and his betrothed Amazon, Hippolyta, where a father's tyranny drives passionate young lovers to escape into the forest outside Athens. Next we meet some tradespeople, "hard-handed men" of the town, planning to perform a theatrical piece at the royal wedding. Last is the fairy kingdom where Oberon and Titania battle over a human child. Oberon's jealousy and its resultant turmoil ignite chaos in the human world by turning nature's seasons upside down.

A Midsummer Night's Dream blossoms in Theatricum Botanicum (theatre in the garden). There are more plants mentioned in this play than in any other of Shakespeare's plays, and through the years it's not surprising that Dream returns to our stage time and again. It appeals to all ages and is the ideal introduction to the Bard's wonderful world of language, character, and storytelling. Classical actors pursue this play again and again throughout their careers, striving like Bottom, to play all the parts.

Director's Notes:

A nation builds a political fortress, for the protection of its people, but what happens when the elements from which the nation forges this fortress do not reflect its' humanity? With the extreme religiosity of the Puritans of the 1600's in Salem, Mass., fear drove friends to name a neighbor as a witch to save themselves from death. The terror of the Nazi regime, or desire to climb within its social strata, again saw neighbors turning on neighbors. In the 1950's, fear cloaked itself in "patriotism" as America's government stripped citizens of their livelihood because of their beliefs. Today, in this nation founded by immigrants, where a hundred different languages are spoken each day, speaking something other than English, in front of the wrong person, can result in a visit from authorities. Is there a better time to throw light on this dark aspect of human nature?

Director's Notes

Enid Bagnold, born in England in 1889, was the daughter of an officer in the Royal Engineers. It was during WWI that she gained some literary recognition for publishing her journals under the title of Diary Without Dates. At the age of 30, she married Sir Roderick Jones, owner and managing director of Reuters News Agency. As Lady Jones, she lived in a 21-room estate in Rottingdean, England and continued to write. She is best known to American audiences for her novel, National Velvet, which was made into a film in 1944 that introduced the young Elizabeth Taylor.

The Chalk Garden was originally turned down by English producers, but championed to Broadway by the American producer Irene Selznick. Of that premiere in 1955, the play was hailed to be as "as whimsical as Sir James Barrie, as poetic as Giraudoux, sometimes as zany as the Marx Brothers, yet with all the elements of a detective story."

It is the inability to easily catalogue this play that I found most intriguing about it. On the surface, the language bubbles in the comic style of an English manner play. But submerged beneath the humor, there is mystery, jealousy, and deep longing. I found it telling that Bagnold had reportedly resisted Selznick's desire to identify only one central theme throughout the play.

Set on the windy seaside coast of Sussex, southern England, the play takes place in the manor house of Mrs. St. Maugham, built on soil of lime and chalk. A relic of Regency England, Mrs. St. Maugham and the occupants of her house, hang on to a past that is dying. Even her dining table is "laid with fragments of forgotten ritual." The gales of truth and perspective sweep in, loosening the feeble hold that the past has over the present. Change is vital, but comes at a cost.

Enid Bagnold, who lived to be 91 years of age, was once described to be "amused and contemplative." I think that well describes this multi-faceted gem of a play.

Director's Notes:

"We are free today because we are the stronger; we will be slaves again when the government becomes the stronger."

--Toussaint L'Ouverture

1802. Napoleon Bonaparte's plan for world domination requires a foothold in the Americas. He dispatches his French troops to colonize Haiti. The Haitians (Creoles), having recently won their freedom from British colonizers want to have their own nation and belong to themselves. Haiti holds an important place in world history as the first free black nation and the first county in the Western Hemisphere to abolish slavery completely. This is told through a personal story that brings this important struggle for us to witness.

Haiti, the play, was written in 1938 as part of the WPA to get people back to work. The Federal Theatre Project was led by Hallie Flannagan who stated, "The plays scream against disease, dirt, poverty, illiteracy, unemployment, despair and at the same time against selfishness, special privileges and social apathy."

There will be one 10-minute intermission.

Benefit Performances in the S. Mark Taper Foundation Pavilion

Spend those balmy summer nights under the oaks and under the stars, in an intimate setting for an eclectic variety of artistic expression and entertainment.

Pacific Trio– September 8

Founded in 1979 in Los Angeles by John Walz and Edith Orloff, this renowned ensemble has played more than 1,000 concerts in the United States, Canada, and Europe. In addition to touring, they serve as trio-in-residence at the Idyllwild Arts Summer Festival southern California.

Rolf Kent's the Concert Goes Awry – September 15

Unexpected textures, sounds, and a signature musical personality are the hallmarks of British film composer Rolf Kent, who has scored more than 50 films, including Academy Award nominated UP IN THE AIR (for which he won a Golden Satellite award), SIDEWAYS (for which he was nominated for a Golden Globe and Critics Choice Award in 2007), LABOR DAY, and BAD WORDS (Jason Bateman's directorial debut). Kent also composed the Emmy-nominated main title theme for the Showtime hit, DEXTER. In 2012, he received the Richard Kirk award for career achievement.

Blacklisted– September 21

Will Geer was blacklisted from a thriving career in Hollywood in the early 1950s. His long career of labor unionizing throughout the United States and association with subversive musicians like Woody Guthrie, Pete Seeger, and others made him a target of suspicion at the height of the Cold War's first 'Red Scare.' In keeping with Will Geer's Theatricum Botanicum's deep social justice roots, Blacklisted is a one of a kind evening celebrating and elevating those musicians which society had once sought to silence.

Composers Collective– September 28

Join us for an evening of WORLD PREMIERE chamber music from some of Hollywood's most prominent composers living in and around Topanga. Hollywood and the film and television industry has made Los Angeles a global mecca for composers. Composers Collective is an annual concert presenting new works and beloved classics by some of LA's most popular and innovative musicians of television, movies, the concert hall, and more.

All Under the Oaks series performances are on Friday nights at 8pm
